New assessments sought throughout county

The Circuit Court was asked Friday to order reassessment of all real estate in Madison County.

A suit by 250 Nameoki Township taxpayers said their township has been unfairly selected for sharp assessment increases along with two rural townships, while all other townships have been ignored. The Nameoki Taxpayers for Countywide Uniformity of Assessment take the position that "if all the real property in the county is reassessed by qualified persons to reflect fair market value, the taxes of most individual taxpayers will be reduced."

Filed by Attorney H. Carl Bunge Jr., the suit requests: 1. A preliminary injunction preventing the county supervisor of assessments from selecting individual townships for reassessments, and from hiring persons not qualified by education or experience to assess property for appraisal service by any recognized association or governmental unit. 2. An injunction against using the assessment figures provided by non-qualified persons. 3. Reinstatement of assessed valuations previously determined to be fair and equitable by township assessors, until qualified persons may reassess parcels of real estate. Also, an order to the treasurer to submit tax bills compatible with the previous valuations. 4. An order to the county assessment supervisor to engage qualified appraisers to properly appraise all real estate in Madison County and set fair market values, applying the same standards countywide. Among the 250 plaintiffs are Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whitsell and new Nameoki Assessor Carl Macios. Defendants are Assessments Supervisor James Barton, County Treasurer George Russo and the County Board.

2 are nearly frozen

Two young men were injured seriously and nearly frozen when their car went off the roadway on Route 157, south of Keeler Road, near Peters Station, early Saturday. The two were thrown from the auto as it went down a 25-foot embankment and into a ditch where they were exposed to the intense cold for several hours. Joseph Howard Jr., 19, Fairmont City, and Robert Galsterer, 18, East St. Louis, were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, shortly after they were found.

Doctors estimated the two may have been exposed to the cold as long as nine hours.

Howard was admitted to the local hospital with a cut to his face and injuries to his left leg and back. He was in fair condition today.

Galsterer suffered a cut to his forehead and was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis. He remained in serious condition under intensive care today.

Shooting victim improves

Robert Tidwell, 25, of 1602 Poplar St., was in satisfactory condition in the intensive care unit of St. Elizabeth Hospital today after he was shot at the Good Neighbor Tavern, 918 Niedringhaus Ave., at 12:35 a.m. Sunday.

Lester C. Flanery, 49, of 1708 Cleveland Blvd., the bartender at the tavern, was arrested by Granite City police at the scene and was charged with aggravated battery. Witnesses said Tidwell and Flanery were having a disagreement and Flanery produced a pistol and fired a warning shot. Tidwell is alleged to have thrown several items at Flanery and then started around the end of the bar toward the bartender. At that time Flanery warned him to stop and fired his pistol again, the bullet striking Tidwell's upper chest, witnesses said.

Tidwell was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was in critical condition when admitted. His condition had improved today. When police arrested Flanery, they took a .38-caliber pistol from the tavern.

The class action suit seeks a court verdict to aid all those reassessed in the township by the county.

It estimates that more than 1,500 were affected, and notes that it would be impractical to bring them all before the court individually.

Dobrey work to be finished by early June

Gov. Dan Walker announced Friday that the state will proceed with the Dobrey Slough project to provide flooding and drainage relief for residents of the northeast section of Granite City.

C. D. Peters Construction Co. of Granite City has been awarded the $145,545 contract for the project.

A spokesman for the Department of Transportation's Division of Waterways said the project will start in the next 30 days and must be completed by June 1.

The work will remove water which has collected in Dobrey Slough and will relieve overloaded storm sewers in that area.

The project has been delayed by the state four times because contract bids were too high, but Gov. Walker said it would be delayed no longer due to the problems flooding has caused in the Granite City area.

Bids were sought on four different occasions in an effort to lower the cost, according to Mrs. Nancy Philippi, director of the governor's task force on flood control.

On one occasion, no bid was submitted, and two bids were submitted on each of two other occasions. The Peters firm was the sole bidder on the last bid, although 27 firms from around the state were contacted by letter and asked to participate in the bidding.

Gov. Walker commended Sen. Sam Vaden, Democrat of Edwardsville, for his efforts to obtain relief for his area.

Amtrak derailed

An Amtrak passenger train derailed at 6 a.m. Friday on the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad tracks about two miles north of Mitchell.

Only one of 17 passengers was injured and he was treated in Springfield, Ill., for a shoulder injury.

Officials said train number 300 was northbound, enroute from St. Louis to Springfield, when the engine left the tracks at a switch. Three passenger cars behind it also derailed.

Passengers stayed in the cars until another Amtrak train behind them stopped and they changed trains.

In addition to the one man injured, three or four passengers were shaken but not hurt, according to spokesmen for Amtrak.

The project will include installation of two pump stations, one to pump the water out of the slough into a newly constructed drainage line that will carry the sewer lines via a second pump near Wabash Avenue. The water would drain into the Nameoki drainage canal at Amos Avenue.

William "Mike" Ebersoldt of Venice, said that he and Russell Robinson of Granite City, sent a telegram Saturday to Gov. Walker thanking the governor for his action. Ebersoldt and Robinson are trustees of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District which several weeks ago was asked to study means by which the levee district could carry out the Dobrey project if the state failed to award a contract.

"Thank you for taking the leadership in settling the Dobrey Slough drainage problem which has plagued us since 1969."

"We congratulate you, not only as trustees of the levee district, but also for residents of the area. Again, we are most grateful for your action."

Bank stock is split

A 100 per cent stock dividend was declared at the annual stockholders' meeting at the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank last week. Announcement was made by E. A. Karandjeff, president of the bank.

Karandjeff said the stock dividend would increase the number of outstanding shares from 60,000 to 120,000 and the amount of capital stock from $600,000 to $1,200,000.

President Karandjeff said the action follows the bank's policy of "providing adequate capital funds to render complete banking service to the thousands of customers."

He noted that in January 1963, capital was increased $150,000, to $300,000 by a 100 per cent stock dividend. In January 1966, capital was increased by a 50 per cent stock dividend, from $300,000 to $450,000.

Amtrak derailed

The crash caused extensive damage to the engine and three cars, which partially jackknifed along the tracks. All of the units remained upright and coupled after the derailment.

Railroad officials had cleared the scene of cars by 10 p.m. Friday.

Head-on crash injures five

Five persons were injured when the cars of Charles Wilson, 22, of 1738 Ferguson Ave. and Ronald Stephens, 19, of 2106 Lee Ave., collided head-on on Madison Avenue near 18th Street at 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Wilson was charged with improper lane usage. The injured were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where all five were admitted.

Wilson suffered cuts to his scalp and chin. Stephens was treated for abrasions to both knees and his left elbow and injuries to his chest.

Three passengers in Stephens' auto also were hurt. Bonnie Krajewski, 16, of 2106 Lee Avenue, was admitted with cuts to her upper lip and left knee and injuries to her right forearm. Connie Krajewski, 12, of the same address, suffered a cut to the side of her head.

Also in the Stephens car was Robert Stephens, 12, of the same address, who sustained a cut to his lip and a contusion to the left side of his face.

The Trust Department, under the direction of Hildebrand, was expanded both in personnel and its facilities.

Additional customer parking was made available through extension of the bank's parking lot, located between Edison Avenue and State Street, and a parking lot on the corner of 18th Street and Edison which was made available for downtown shoppers.

Those at the meeting heard special mention of bank personnel whose efforts extended beyond regular bank activities to varied civic responsibilities.

The bitter cold hampered firefighting efforts as firemen quickly became covered with ice. The exterior of the building became coated with ice while the fire continued to rage inside.

Efforts were further complicated when a freight train blocked the Madison Avenue crossing beside the tavern and necessitated routing traffic and equipment by State Street.

Firemen reported the building was filled with flames when they arrived at the scene. One fireman described the building as "a ball of flames" when fire trucks arrived. The gutted building became the scene of more incidents.

New assessment

have filed individual protests alleging that their sharply increased valuations now exceed 50 per cent of "fair, fair cash value." The County Board of Review is scheduling hearings this month on objections.

The suit alleges that between 1971 and 1973, at the express instruction of the supervisor of assessments, Nameoki Township property was assessed by unknown criteria "for the expressed purpose of reviewing existing assessments with an eye toward raising them."

Other than three townships, the county has not reassessed property, it is contended.

The suit says the late assessment supervisor, Dale Hill, and his successor, James Barton, concluded "arbitrarily and unreasonably without justification in fact" that Nameoki was under-assessed and hired inexperienced persons who applied inconsistent assessment practices.

Consequence has been an unfairly heavy proportion of the Madison County tax load, the property owners say.

Walker sees Illinois coal as a key to ending U. S. fuel crisis

Governor Daniel Walker's eight-point program for Illinois to meet the challenge of the current energy problem is intended to achieve "energy self-sufficiency to power our ever-expanding economy in the future."

In his second state of the state message to the General Assembly, Gov. Walker last week said the goal of the program is to develop the vast coal resources of Illinois while continuing to protect the environment.

He placed major emphasis on the state seeking "with all the resources at our command" to bring a proposed $1 billion federal Coal Research Center to Illinois.

He listed these points in his state energy program:

1. "We should enact an Illinois Energy Development and Conservation Act providing bonding authority of $100,000,000 for the following purposes—"

—To successfully complete and implement research and development of the technology necessary to make Illinois coal economically viable and consistent with clean air standards.

—This, he said, will require a coordinated effort with the business and scientific community. It could open up enormous new markets for Illinois coal not only in Illinois but throughout the country, he added.

—To help develop and finance improvements to existing public buildings such as schools in order to make them more energy efficient.

—The cost of these improvements could be recovered through reduced fuel costs—in some instances within five years. A federal-state partnership to defray costs would expand the program and provide a tremendous impetus for the construction industry throughout the state," Walker asserted.

—To finance site acquisition and development of the billion dollar federal coal gasification project.

—We should help industry install pollution control devices that permit the burning of Illinois coal by increasing the bond authorization of the existing Illinois Pollution Control Financing Authority.

—This increased authorization would be available only for the acquisition and installation of air pollution control equipment. These bonds would be repaid by the user of the equipment," the governor explained.

3. "The Illinois Commerce Commission should expedite the establishment of a rate structure to encourage utilities to install pollution control devices enabling them to burn Illinois coal."

4. "The Capital Development Board should review pending construction projects and incorporate fuel saving standards of construction the board is now developing. The CDB is the single largest developer in the state."

—This will necessitate some increase in initial construction costs, but will prove more efficient over the long run by reducing fuel costs."

He said the federal approach to the energy problem "has been narrow, punitive in some cases and above all confusing. It has riveted attention to the symptoms."

Gov. Walker said the answer to the energy problem is not to put the burden of solving it on the people nor to rely on "rationing by wealth—allowing fuel prices to climb so high as to put sufficient gasoline and home heating fuel beyond the reach of the ordinary working person."

Walker continued: "Here stands Illinois with the sixth largest coal reserves in the state in the nation. We have an estimated 150 to 200 billion tons of coal reserves, a supply that could last for two centuries."

"We could use that coal in Chicago. We could use it in Peoria—in Madison County—throughout the state. We could sell it in the energy-starved East."

The stumbling block to tapping that vast resource has been its polluting effect on the air, he said.

Walker cautioned against abandoning environmental protection to increase energy resources, adding:

"I am committed to the progress we have made in purifying the air we breathe. We do not have to give up that progress in order to warm our homes and drive on Sunday."

"I propose we take the leadership in making Illinois coal clean."

He cautioned that the program outlined last week would not "Put heating oil in your boiler tomorrow" (nor) gas in your tank this Sunday," but Gov. Walker said the steps he proposes "will bring results in the years ahead—results in terms of energy conservation and employment; results in terms of a general stimulation of our economy."

AUTOMOBILE IS STOLEN
The 1964 auto of Douglas Teeter, 2231 Bern Ave., Nameoki Township clerk, was stolen from the rear lot of the Granite City Steel Employees Federal Credit Union, 1517 Twentieth St. Last week it was recovered five hours later by Madison Sheriff's deputies.

Alaska tour offers credit

An educational tour of Alaska and Canada will be conducted by the Department of Educational Administration of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville School of Education from June 24 to July 14.

George C. Ackerkund, professor of educational administration at SIUE, and Olin Stratton, superintendent of schools, Highland, are co-directors of the tour, which is open to the public as well as school administrators.

Ackerlund said it will offer sightseeing opportunities and discussions with school administrators in Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton, Canada, and Fairbanks and Anchorage, Alaska. Visits also are scheduled to the Vancouver and Seattle areas.

The tour will originate from Lambert Airport in St. Louis, with pickup service at Chicago. Cost of the trip will be approximately $1,000.

Arrangements will be made to accommodate wives, families and others on the tour while administrators are visiting schools.

The tour may be taken for credit by enrolling for Educational Administration 505, Workshop in Current Problems in School Administration. The cost of the course is $50.

The tour directors said reservations will be accepted in the order received and will be limited to 40 persons. Reservations should be sent to Prof. Ackerlund at the School of Education, SIUE.

Free economy might ease fuel crisis economic harm

By S. E. PERSHALL JR., President

Tri-City Grocery Company

As of this writing, the economy seems to be in for a cooling down period. Much of what will happen in 1974 will be dependent on the so called "energy crisis."

If our large manufacturers, such as the big three of the auto industry, continue to lay off thousands of employees this will have a very bad effect on all phases of our economy.

The auto industry touches steel, rubber and glass, to name only three major industries.

These industries in turn affect other small companies, so it is like a snowball in reverse.

Instead of gathering employees, each company in turn will shed employees until, I feel, the whole economy will feel the jolt.

Immediately, most filling station operators have felt the jolt and have had to reduce their operating hours.

The airlines are another long arm of our economy that has immediately felt the jar of the fuel crisis.

They all have been forced to lay off thousands of employees due to reduced flight schedules.

Wages and price controls are still in effect in most industries and this has cooled down the inflationary surge to some extent.

However, the question now

becomes: "Does the government need to pep up or slow down the economy?"

As of this writing, they are probably somewhat confused. Incidentally, it seems a shame that we must always look to our government to control our economy.

It seems as if we could develop a free economy with the good old law of supply and demand operating freely; we could function better than we are at the present.

The Washington scandal, coupled with the energy crisis and the unsettled international situation, have shaken the confidence of most Americans and has been reflected in the stock market tailspin.

Actually, profits are higher than ever in this country, but investors are evidently not in an investing mood.

The profits in the retail grocery business nationwide were improved over last year after coming off the worst year in a quarter of a century.

The average profit after taxes rose to the grand total of one half of one per cent after taxes for the first six months.

Tri City Grocery Company also improved their profit picture somewhat.

We opened no new supermarkets nor did we close any during 1973. We may possibly open one new supermarket in 1974, while we hope to remodel several of our existing stores.

We do not look for any large increase in profits for the coming year and will be happy to hold our own.

The cost of supplies, especially paper bags, has risen astronomically during 1973 and may continue to do so during 1974; this is just one example of rising costs that we must contend with during 1974.

Frankly, unless our nation's conditions change drastically, I look for a slowdown in our economy during 1974.

I do not see how our large industries can continue to lay off thousands of employees without affecting us all.

Hearings Thursday
Public hearings are scheduled Thursday in Springfield on plans submitted to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency by Reilly Tar & Chemical Co., 1905 Street and Edwardsville Road, and Union Electric Co. for the Venice power station.

Both plans call for the companies to follow schedules in completion air pollution control programs which will bring them in compliance with federal air control regulations.

Social Security reports required

Persons who received any monthly checks from Social Security in 1973 and earned over $2,100 in 1973 must file a report on their earnings with the Social Security Administration before April 16, 1974, according to William Kerr, district manager of the East St. Louis Social Security Office.

A change in the earnings test for 1973 provided for the withholding of $1 in benefits for each $2 of earnings in excess of $2,100. Kerr said that many eligible workers who earned over $2,100 in 1973 might be missing out on benefits by not filing this annual report even though they did not draw any Social Security benefits during the past year.

Monthly benefits also are payable to eligible beneficiaries regardless of the amount earned in 1973 for any month in which they did not earn over $175 or render substantial services in self-employment.

For information and assistance in completing this annual report, beneficiaries were advised to contact the local social security office at 274-2200 or 397-5350.

Sanders area commander of 5 state police districts

Illinois State Police Superintendent Dwight E. Pitman on Saturday announced he will name Major State Police command changes effective Jan. 16.

Only one of the changes will include an immediate promotion in rank. The others will be lateral transfers.

Pitman said the promotion and transfers are an effort to bring fresh viewpoints to management through functional expertise, and in no way signal a major command shakeup.

The major change will be the addition of one area command, for a total of three, with Capt. Oren C. Lowder, 48, Springfield, being the sole promotion.

Lowder will become a major, the highest State Police rank outside of superintendent. He will coordinate command activities at the districts headquartered in Sterling, Pontiac, Rock Island, Peoria, Peconia and Macomb.

Capt. Herbert L. Branlett, 52, Calhoun, will be reassigned from District 3 headquarters in Springfield to an area command with supervisory functions over districts at Elgin, Des Plaines, Blue Island, Joliet, and Oak Brook. Both men will remain in Springfield.

The third area command will be under Capt. Charles R. Sanders, 53, Springfield, for districts at Elgin, Des Plaines, Peotium, Maryville, Effingham and DuQuoin.

Other command changes will be:

—Lt. William J. Ryan, 37, Jacksonville, will take command of the State Police Training Academy at Springfield.

—Capt. Francis R. Garrett, 54, Springfield, will take command of the State Police Information and Education Section, which provides the public seminars and defensive driving courses offered by the State Police.

—Capt. Daniel L. O'Brien, 47, Springfield, will take command of the State Police Planning and Research Section, which is in charge of formulating more effective police functions by the division.

—Lt. Gerald J. Schilling, 42, of Mount Pulaski, will become acting commander of the State Police detective section formerly headed by Capt. Oliver.

St. Louis Area Women in Higher Education, a new organization for women working in institutions of higher education in the metropolitan area, will meet Jan. 23 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The meeting will be held at 3 p.m. in the Mississippi Room of the University Center.

Primary purpose of the meeting will be to complete and ratify a constitution and bylaws for the organization, according to Mrs. Louise Saunders of SIUE, a member of the group's interim planning committee.

Interim officers include Julia Mahoney of St. Louis University, president, and Ann Dempsey of Florissant Valley Junior College, secretary.

The membership, composed of women in both faculty and staff positions, includes representatives from approximately 20 colleges and universities in the metropolitan area.

Mrs. Saunders said the purpose of the organization is "to improve the status of women working in institutions of higher education in the St. Louis metropolitan area."

The objectives, according to the proposed constitution, include "working in support of equal employment opportunities for women providing a forum for discussion of problems affecting women... providing a means of materials exchange and liaison among women... "Facilitating communication with organizations working along related lines... encouraging the development of women's studies courses and the incorporation of materials concerning women in existing courses... and the eradication of sexist biases in the institutions of higher education in the St. Louis area."

Fabric affects warmth

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County Adviser—
Home Economics

In parts of the country where cold weather came early this year, retailers noticed a decided increase in sales of sweaters, underwear (particularly the thermal type) and nightwear (particularly flannel).

If you're still in the market for warm, winter clothing, here are some shopping tips to keep in mind.

Warmth in garments is directly related to fiber content. Two generic groups of fibers known for their excellence for warm clothing are wool and acrylics.

One of the characteristics that makes wool warm is its construction. Wool fibers are a series of overlapping scales. Air spaces among the fibers, in the yarns, and in the fabric itself keep body heat close to the body.

Woolenless air is one of the best insulators known.

Absorbency also makes wool warm. Wool picks up moisture in vapor form, and as it is absorbed, heat is created.

In winter, as people go from a dry indoor atmosphere into the damp outdoors, the moisture absorbed by wool clothing helps protect against cold air.

The acrylics—acrylic, acrilan, Creslan and Zefran—are the synthetic fibers most like wool. They are used extensively in knits, fur-like fabrics and sweaters.

The bulkiness or crimping of acrylic fibers increases their volume without increasing their weight. Bulkied yarns trap air as do wool fibers and thereby contribute warmth. The bulkiness process also softens acrylic fibers giving them some of the soft textures of wool.

Consumers should also consider the construction of a fabric when looking for warm clothes.

Quilted fabrics consisting of two layers of fabric and sometimes a filling material are both fashionable and warm.

Pile fabrics—corduroy velvet and suede-like woven fabrics—are warmer than flat fabrics because they trap more body heat.

Pile fabrics used as liners in coats and jackets are particularly warm because they are worn next to the body so even more heat is trapped.

Fabrics are warm because of the soft twist of filling yarns and fibers on the fabric surface that increases dead air space. Cotton, wool and acrylics are the fibers used most often in making napped fabrics.

Consumers should especially look for short, compact nap on a fabric made with firm yarns, closely woven. This kind wears best.

Many consumers are familiar with flannel, a napped fabric that has been in use for many years.

The word "flannel" refers to cotton or a cotton blend that has been napped on one side only. Outing flannel is napped on both sides and therefore may be a little warmer.

Final plans for the City Council Valentine Dance were discussed at the chapter's meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Carol Davis, 3322 Redbud Ave. The dance will be held Feb. 16 at the Granite City

Continuing education for women

Mrs. Arven H. Saunders of Edwardsville has contributed $600 as an initial grant to the establishment of the Louise Wilkins Saunders Loan Fund at SIUE to promote a program for continuing education for women.

Loans will be made by the director of student financial assistance "to mature women students of SIUE who are continuing their education to fulfill their career goals."

Loans will be interest free and are to be repaid at the rate of $41.67 per month beginning the first day of the tenth month after the recipient has been graduated or no longer is enrolled in the continuing education program as a student at SIUE.

Trojans upset Pioneers, but Tigers prove too tough

The Madison High School Trojans continue to prove to their Class AA basketball opponents that just because they are a Class A squad does not mean they cannot hold their own with the larger powerhouses.

The local squad downed Assumption's East St. Louis 35-39 Friday at Assumption, its ninth school victim this season, before bowing 76-62 Saturday to the Tigers of Edwardsville at Madison.

MHS, ranked number one in independent state standings, handed Assumption the worst defeat ever felt by the East St. Louis team. The Trojans utilized their aggressive full court press inflicting 26 Pioneer turnovers while hitting 63 percent from the field and 64 percent from the foul line, 19 out of 30 attempts.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD
Page 6 Mon., Jan. 14, 1974

Assumption, without the services of Jerome Heavens, who was out with an injury, trailed in every quarter, 22-13, 43-31, 66-44 and 95-59, as Madison held the enemy to 24 field goals, and high point man Earl McKinney to only 18 points.

Rudolph Bradley, who scored 16 points in the game, increased Madison's margin over Assumption to 22 points late in the third quarter on three consecutive baskets, a deficit the Pioneers could not even come close to overcoming.

Jon Henke led the attack with 10 points for Madison, Daryl Franklin had 16, Carl Campbell 11, Chris Stanley and Ron Glasper, nine. Norman Whitecotton, seven, Willie Sheary four, and Emmitt Timmons, two.

Trojan Coach Larry Graham was so confident in the Madison squad that he retired his starting players in the fourth quarter, replacing them with his back-up team.

The victory over Assumption gave Madison a little extra fire Saturday going into its second meeting this season against the Edwardsville Tigers. Edwardsville had defeated the Trojans 70-51 in the championship game of the Edwardsville Holiday Tournament.

The Tigers once again proved to Madison that they still hold the edge by outscoring the local school in every period of play, 20-11, 38-30, 56-46, and 76-62.

The final score of the clash does not tell the whole story of how well the Trojans faced up to the challenge of the Tigers. Madison hit on 30 of 82 field goal attempts, recovered 32 rebounds, and only turned the ball over to the enemy 12 times.

Edwardsville committed 23 turnovers, but outdid the host by bringing down 40. The Tigers also edged Madison from the field, completing 34 of 63 baskets attempted.

The Trojans never abandoned their efforts to upset the visitors, closing within six, 60-54, and the four, 60-56, in the final period of play. But the passing game, Dick Brown as the two Edwardsville players racked up 68 points between them, Brown 36 and Gammill 32.

Madison was led in scoring by the 14 points of Rudolph Bradley and the 12 of Alvin Wigfall. Wigfall was in his first game of the season Saturday after being ruled eligible to play.

Other Trojan point makers were Ron Glasper with 11, Jon

Henke and Daryl Franklin with 10 each, Chris Stanley three and Carl Campbell, two.

"We outplayed them in the second half," said Madison coach Larry Graham, "but we changed our defensive tactic too late to stop Brown and Gammill."

Madison will play host to the Oakville Rockets at 6:45 p.m. Thursday in a makeup contest which had to be postponed due to deep snow earlier this month.

Arkansas Gems meet teachers

Quad-City area high school basketball teams have always produced star shooters, and this year's squads are no exception. It is doubtful, however, that any of the local cagers can match the shooting performance of Neuman who has a career high of 108 points in a single game.

Better known as "Miss Basketball," the 5-6 ball of fire from Eden Valley, Minn., currently is averaging 47 points a game as the top point maker of the Arkansas Gems. The all-girl cage squad will be in town tomorrow evening at eight o'clock to meet the men's faculty of GCHS South at the local school's gymnasium.

Known as the "Bob Cousy" of girls basketball, Miss Neuman is the only female in existence to have her uniform enshrined in the Naismith National Basketball Hall of Fame at Springfield, Mass.

"Peps" is rated number one in girls basketball and is well noted for her half-court hook shots, 35 foot swishers, twisting driving lay-ups and free throws from knee level.

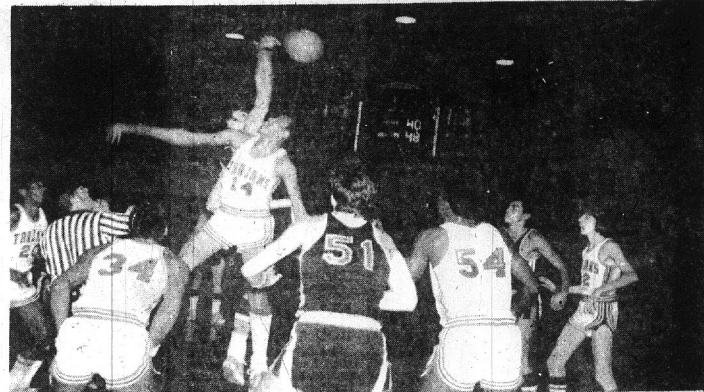

She is complemented on the court by her teammates, five year veteran Marli Witt and six footers Judy Oelrich, Susan Edgcomb and Deborah Patty. Ann Wolf and Deborah Heath round out the team. On a given night, any one of these girls can toss in 25 points or more.

The "Gems," with their razzle-dazzle style of playing, have performed in all 50 states, as well as overseas, and boast a record of 161-2 while playing under men's rules and against men's teams, a record in any league.

The girls cagers, throughout their travels, have sent many outstanding men's teams to the locker room with red faces.

The faculty at South hopes to become an exception to that fact tomorrow if they can play without committing too many team fouls.

South's all-star faculty lineup includes assistant football coaches Stan Wojcik and Don Miller, history teacher Harold Boren, assistant basketball coach John Modica and Greg Patton and Andy Sullivan, assistant track coach.

SCORING TIPOFF is taken by Tiger Greg Ahart, 2nd from right, after receiving the ball from teammate Bruce Hesterberg who engaged in a jump contest with Madison's Ron Glasper (14). The resulting Edwardsville basket boosted the Tigers to a 10 point, edge, 50-

Steelers topple Mater Dei

All through history, the giant dominated everything until, eventually, it met David and his slingshot—and the giant came tumbling down.

Such was the case Saturday night when unbeaten (11-0) Breese Mater Dei met the Steelers of Granite City High School North (4-4), who pulled back the string of its slingshot and released a rock in the form of Greg Gauert to topple the Knights 62-61 at the South gymnasium. Led by high scorer Dave Schmeke, North overcame a 19-8 first period deficit to tie the game 28-28 at halftime. Breese held a slim one point margin, 41-40, over the local squad at the end of three quarters after the Steelers came out from the halftime break to match the Knights basket for basket.

The final period of play turned into a seesaw battle between the two teams with both squads exchanging the lead repeatedly.

The fatal blow to the Knights came with 14 seconds left in the game when Gauert scored his second field goal of the contest. With North trailing 61-59, Gauert moved down court with the ball and released the bullet from the sidelines, a 20-foot jump shot, to give his team the victory.

The Steelers matched Breese from the field as each team tallied 26 field goals. North held an edge from the free throw line, 10 of 15, as compared to the Knights' nine of 19. North committed 20 fouls while Breese limited theirs to 15.

In scoring, Schmeke could do no wrong, hitting 13 of 19 field goals attempted and plunking in seven of eight from the foul line for a total of 33 points.

Other than Schmeke and Gauert, local cagers who assisted in scoring were Mike Waldo with nine, Darrell Page six, Gene Logas six and Larry Jones four.

Mater Dei, fresh from Friday night's victory over Belleville West, was led in scoring by Lance Reilmann's 20 points.

The Steelers will attempt to bring their season record to 5-5 Friday with a victory over the Panthers of O'Fallon when the two meet at 6:30 p.m. on the Panther's home court.

Venice tops Valmeyer

The Venice Red Devils are looking forward to another win tomorrow night at Wood River. Venice now has an 8-2 season record after Saturday night's 73-64 victory over Valmeyer.

"It was a tough game," remarked Devil Coach Richard Essington. "We did not start putting it together until late in the third quarter."

Valmeyer matched the local Devils' basket for basket throughout the entire first half behind the 28 points scored by Wayne Rohlfing to tie the game at the end of each period, 16-16 and 19-19.

Both ball clubs still were tied with seconds left in the third period until Venice hit on a field goal and one free throw to pull ahead by three, 56-53, going into the final period of play.

The local squad outscored the visitors 17-11 in the fourth period and stopped the high scoring spree of Rohlfing to put the win on ice.

Valmeyer kept its pace with Venice on six free throws which were earned from 16 fouls committed by the Devils. Venice shot poorly from the foul line and was able to capitalize on the enemy's 13 fouls by making good only three shots.

All-Stater Ron Henry again led the local squad in point making with 33. Mike Logan added 14 points and sophomore Reggie Gardner made 12. Tony Sitton and J. B. Harmon added eight and six points, respectively.

1-2 weekend ends South mat record, North crushes Kankoks

"I guess you can expect to be beaten sooner or later. All I had to vote tomorrow, I would still rank South number one."

Individual weight class results (pins indicated by times) were: 98

Halbrook, 2:44; 105 —

Garland, 105:112 — Mac

Millan, 105:119 — John

Niebur, 105:126 — Dan

Heath, 105:132 — Dan

Heath, 105:138 — Dan

Hasty, 105:145 — Dave

Rushing, 105:159; 155 — Ken

Nolen, 105:172; 167 — Brian

Wilson, 105:176; 185

John Avedisian won 134; and heavyweight — Jerry Paterson, lost 3-2.

South carried its loss to Pekin Saturday to meet the host school and Carl Sandburg High in a double mat meet where the Warriors dropped a heartbreaking 19-18 decision to Pekin. They recovered with a 36-18 win over Sandburg.

The local matmen captured half of the matches against

Pekin, but a superior decision

(a win by 10 points or more) by

Pekin in the 105 pound class returned to haunt South at the end of the meet.

"One point more in either the 126 or 132 class wins we posted would have tied the meet," remarked Schmitt. "Even a tied decision in the 145 class would have done the trick," he added.

Schmitt stated that Wilson, wrestling at 167, had to wrestle out of his class. Wilson was the 155 pound champion in the recent holiday tournament at the local school but was matched Saturday with 188 pound champion Jay Hangartner.

Wilson lost 4-2 on a take down with four seconds left in the match.

Schmitt added that Pekin's one point winning margin was in the 105 pound class at the expense of Larry Jerry

Caschetta who was wrestling in his first varsity meet. Caschetta dropped a 10-9 superior decision to this opponent.

Other results of the Pekin match, in which there were no pins posted, were: 98 pound —

Halbrook, won 2-0; 112 —

MacMillan, won 2-0; 119 —

Niebur won 15-7; 126 — Dan

Heath, won 9-0; 132 — Dan

Heath, won 9-0; 138 — Hasty, lost 4-2; 145 — Rushing, lost 6-3;

155 — Nolen, lost 10-5; 185 —

Avedisian, won 7-1; and heavyweight — Patterson, lost

10-2.

South showed its mark as a state champion by bouncing back to post a 36-18 victory over

Sandburg. Sandburg had been undefeated this season, a record which included a win Saturday over Pekin in the third round.

The Warriors posted four pins and three decisions in the victory and wrestled to a draw in another match. Sandburg topped five matches.

Trade policy has big effect on steel and fuel outlooks

By JOHN P. ROCHE
President,
American Iron and Steel Institute

The booming global demand for steel in 1973 demonstrated that (1) the metal still is the world's most inexpensive and widely used material; and (2) chickens come home to roost.

In the United States, in response to demand, the domestic steel industry produced more raw steel and shipped a higher total tonnage of steel mill products in 1973 than in any other year in history.

The industry's furnaces poured an estimated 150 million tons of raw steel. The former record of 141.3 million tons was made in 1969.

Shipments are estimated to have topped 111 million tons, far outdistancing the previous record of nearly 94 million tons, also set in 1969.

Despite record output by U.S. steel producers, steel shortages began to occur in the country as 1973 unfolded.

Steel users who had been relying on foreign-made mill products found their foreign suppliers demanding premiums of 25 per cent to 100 per cent over domestic prices or spurning them altogether. The chickens had come home to roost.

From 1965 to 1972, the growth in the domestic steel market had been siphoned off by predatorily-priced imports from government-owned or government-directed overseas steel industries.

The profits of domestic steel companies plunged, and they found themselves unable to afford or justify expanding their capacity appreciably.

The pressure of imports of certain mill products was so great that it forced the elimination of some domestic capacity; for example, the capacity to produce wire rod. As a result, today there is a shortage of baling wire and mine roof bolts, both of which are made from wire rod.

Through those years, our steel industry concentrated its capital spending ($17.2 billion in 10 years) on plant modernization and improvement, including the installation of air and water quality control equipment.

Today, the U.S. has a steel industry employing the most advanced technology, but one whose raw steel capacity must be increased 20 million to 25 million tons by 1980 if it is to supply at least 85 per cent of growing U.S. steel requirements.

The steel industry's profit margins of recent years, however, will neither provide nor attract the enormous sums of capital required to increase its raw steel capacity.

In 1971 and 1972, the steel industry had the lowest return on net worth of any of the 40 major manufacturing industries, according to the First National City Bank.

In 1973, steel profits rose; but, more than likely, when all the 1973 results are in, steel's profits as a percentage of net worth still will be below the average for all manufacturing industries.

The steel import problem has receded but not disappeared. The tide could change quickly, as recent history has shown.

In 1970, U.S. exports of steel mill products reached nearly 7.1 million tons — their highest total since the beginning of World War II. Imports that year totaled 13.4 million tons.

In 1971, steel imports soared to a record 18.3 million tons. U.S. exports of steel plummeted to 2.8 million tons, and unemployment in the domestic steel industry climbed to its highest level since the late Depression days of 1939.

Imports could easily rise again if an economic slowdown in other steel-producing countries induces them to export large tonnages of steel — at depressed prices — which their own economies cannot absorb.

The steel industry believes that the government should pursue an international trade policy that prevents market disruption by surges of marginally-priced steel imports.

Such a policy would have a favorable impact on decisions by steel management and lending institutions to invest in additional steel facilities.

U.S. trade policy pertaining to steel will be a crucial factor in determining whether the U.S. has a strong steel industry at the end of this decade, or one unable to supply our national requirements.

Steel companies are putting an average of 10 to 12 per cent of their capital outlays into environmental quality control facilities, and producing a record of which they can be proud.

The industry has reached a point where it is taking out 94 per cent of the total pollutants in its water discharges. It is taking out better than 85 per cent of the pollutants from its emissions into the air, on the average.

Obviously, the enormous expenditures which the industry is making for environmental control are adding tremendously to the pressure of the capital crunch the industry is feeling.

Therefore, the government should separate the environmental goals that are one critically important from those that are merely cosmetic, and establish realistic standards and timetables.

The steel industry, of course, is much concerned about the availability of fuel oil, although, from an energy standpoint, the industry is essentially a coal-based industry. Over 66 per cent of the energy that goes into the production of steel comes from coal.

The industry uses less than one per cent of the fuel oil consumed in the U.S. annually, but that one per cent is used in processes essential to steelmaking.

The inability of steelmakers to obtain the oil they need could produce a damaging ricochet effect upon the economy.

Not only would steel production and employment have to be reduced, but cutbacks in output and jobs would be bound to occur in steel-consuming industries.

The energy-producing industries are among the significant steel-consuming industries. Large quantities of steel are required in the drilling rigs, pipelines, tankers, refineries and coal-gasification plants needed to increase supplies of fossil fuels.

In view of its role in the economy, security and welfare of the nation, the steel industry should have a top industrial priority for fuel oil.

Oil is not the only problem material. The short supply and skyrocketing cost of many critical steelmaking materials constitute one of the major problems facing the industry.

The price of scrap steel and iron, for example, has doubled since the beginning of 1972.

And in the most recent month for which data are available, the receipts of ferrous scrap by steel companies were substantially below their requirements.

Scrap steel and iron account for 47 per cent of the metallics charged into steelmaking furnaces. In the case of electric furnaces, virtually all the metallics are scrap.

The scrap problem is traceable to the drain placed on the domestic supply by foreign steelmakers. In 1972, the scrap available for purchase increased by six million tons over 1971, but two-thirds of that tonnage was exported.

It should be noted that when we export scrap we export energy.

It takes 13 million BTUs to make a ton of steel using iron ore, but only 6½ million BTUs to make a ton from scrap. Consequently, every time we export a ton of scrap, we export 6½ million BTUs. We are the only country which exports energy in that fashion.

It is clear that for several important reasons, it would be in the best interest of the United States if an immediate and total embargo were placed on the export of all ferrous scrap.

At this time, it appears that the steel market will continue to be strong through 1974. While shipments to the auto industry may decline, those to the capital goods industries are likely to increase.

So, the domestic steel industry is optimistic about its prospects for the year. But it is admittedly a cautious optimism because of impact-filled uncertainties.

Recommend zoning requests

The Madison County Board of Appeals has recommended approval of two local zoning requests and the recommendations will be presented to the Madison County Board at its meeting at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the County Courthouse at Edwardsville.

A petition by Georgia E. and Vernon Anderson, owners, and Guye A. and Terry Young purchasers, was held by the county board last month and will be reconsidered.

It requests a special use permit to board and raise horses and to construct an accessory building prior to construction of a barn in an R-3 residential district in Chouteau Township.

The property is on St. Thomas Road near Route 151. The Board of Appeals again is recommending the request be granted.

A request by Louis and Vita Conko Sr., owners, and Charles H. Short, representing National Advertising Co., for a variation in requirements on area allowed for a sign also was recommended for approval. The property is an agricultural district on Chouteau Township on Chouteau Island.

Gasoline shortage shows convenience of living here

By PAUL H. LICHTENBERGER
Chairman and Chief Executive Officer
First Granite City National Bank

If one is to believe the "gloom and doom" reports emanating daily from our television and radio network stations—and some of the projections published by certain economists—we should all cease doing business, sit on our hands, and await a hopefully brighter 1975 or maybe 1976.

Among the favorite topics we hear daily—and it seems at times that certain of the commentators regily enjoy broadcasting bad news—are: Watergate, the energy crisis, business slowdown with lower profits and rising unemployment, drop in new housing units, rising inflation.

You name it; if it's bad, we have it dimmed into our ears constantly. But before we panic, let's look at a few facts.

This nation of ours has endured for 196 years. We are looking forward to the celebration of our bicentennial in 1976.

Our nation was founded in revolution, a war won by our forefathers fighting under almost impossible conditions and against mighty odds.

Since that time, we have lived through a Civil War two World Wars and numerous other conflicts.

We have survived and surmounted the hardships of major depressions and panics, national and local scandals political and otherwise.

Each resulted in some changes in our governmental structure and, more importantly, I believe, in a strengthening of our resolve to insist on better performance on the part of our elected representatives, from the President down through the local level.

Unfortunately, this resolve seems to weaken when things get better and we again become engrossed in our personal problems, losing interest in the manner in which our government and business operates.

We continually complain about ever-increasing taxes and governmental expenditures—and almost in the same breath—demand more and better services from our government.

We complain about the ever-increasing cost of living, never stopping to analyze our shopping habits—or to realize that at least a portion of the increase is represented by our expanded use of convenience items and labor-saving appliances.

Perhaps we can dispel a little of the "gloom and doom" by examining the items listed above more closely.

Watergate—A sordid mess. The most charitable analysis discloses, at the least, an alarming lack of judgment in the choice of top aides and the delegation of power to them.

Hopefully, this may cause Congress to stop its petty feuding over election reforms and result in the passage of new legislation to bar the practices uncovered in the past 18 months.

Energy crisis—Contrary to popular belief, this is not a sudden happening brought on by the Arab oil embargo.

Ten years ago, thoughtful men were warning of an impending energy shortage, but their words were lost in our sudden demands for overnight improvements in our environmental and ecological standards.

We continued to expand our energy uses with no apparent effort to find new sources.

Only now are we beginning to adopt a practical approach and balance between our energy needs and our desire to live in a cleaner environment.

Finally, our government also realizes that it must do its share, along with private industry, to foster and develop the research necessary to find new sources of power.

Business slowdown—Yes, in the first six months, due largely to the energy crisis. Better in the last half year.

Net result equalling or slightly better than 1973, but a substantial drop in the rate of growth we've seen in the past few years.

Some increase in unemployment in the first quarter, hopefully improving thereafter. Drop in new housing—In 1973, we saw a drop in new housing starts occasioned by a tight money policy and rising interest rates.

For 1974, we can look for an improvement in the money supply, but again the energy crisis rears its ugly head.

Most of the development over the past years has been away from the urban area and—with no improvement in our public transportation facilities—has resulted in an ever-increasing use of private automobiles, increasing our demands for gasoline and making a major contribution to our air pollution problem.

Perhaps this is the time to take another look at our central city housing.

Locally, we have many fine old homes within walking distance of our Downtown. A little work and planning could restore these homes and make a major contribution to the economics of our area.

Rising inflation—No improvement in sight. The rate of increase will be determined largely by the fiscal and monetary policies of our federal government.

At the local level, prospects for 1974 are, to say the least, mixed.

The substantial cutbacks by the automobile industry already have caused the temporary closing of the A. O. Smith plant and will likewise reduce demands for steel.

Fortunately, increased demand from other sectors offset to a great extent this slackening of demand for steel makers.

The closing of the Castings Division of General Steel has hurt our local economy.

Local business and labor leaders along with city officials have joined in an all-out effort to interest new industry in this area. Hopefully, these efforts will be successful.

In closing, I would like to leave this thought with you—

I believe in this nation and in the concept of freedom born and nurtured here and which has set an example and furnished a pattern for the rest of the world. God and the dedication of each of us, we can solve the problems facing us and emerge a better and stronger nation, ready to re-assume our role of leadership in world affairs and in the labor for peace and understanding among all men."

Senate praises late Mayor Lee as talented, dynamic leader of city

A resolution introduced by Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene and adopted by the Illinois Senate last week cites legislators' deep grief over the death of Venice Mayor John E. Lee Jr., 52, Nov. 30.

The resolution relates that "Dr. Lee, a graduate of St. Louis University and St. Louis University Dental School, maintained an active dental practice in Madison and was also president of the First National Bank in Madison."

"His tenure as mayor was distinguished by governmental efficiency and integrity, wise fiscal policies, a general upgrading of the police and fire departments and numerous municipal improvements."

"He further contributed to the Venice community by spearheading programs for senior citizens and for youth. He was a member of the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce, the United Fund and the Boy Scouts Council.

Page 12 Mon., Jan. 14, 1974

"He will be sorely missed by his associates and colleagues in government and by his many friends who held for him the highest measure of devotion and respect."

"He leaves as a proud heritage to mourn his passing his wife, the former Margaret Knecht, a son, John E. Lee III of Venice, two daughters, Mrs. Rodney (Mary Frances) Bauder and Miss Peggy Lee, both of Venice, and his two sisters, Mrs. Catherine Hildebrand and Mrs. Charles (Mary) Simmons, also of Venice."

The Illinois Senate formally resolved that it joins "with his friends and the members of his bereaved family in mourning the death of a talented and dynamic government leader, and that we extend to his family our most profound sympathies in this hour of bereavement."

The preamble and resolution are to be entered in the journal of the Senate as a memorial of "the government, civic and community service contributed in bounteous measure to the people of his beloved home town of Venice."

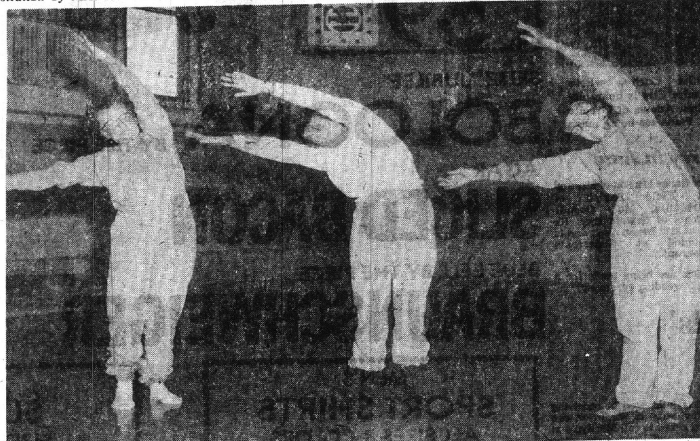

A copy will be forwarded to Mrs. Lee.

VISIBLE PROOF that exercise keeps one agile and fit is a demonstration by Mrs. Ida Cassell, one of the participants in the fall YMCA

Ladies Fitness Finders Class. Mrs. Cassell, at the age of 80, helped set the pace for the class members.

Women achieve fitness in Y exercise program

The Tri-City Area YMCA could use no one better to promote its new women's program than Ida Cassell, a very agile 80-year-old woman.

Mrs. Cassell, who is a staunch advocate of the exercise classes at the YMCA, participated in the fall exercise program which was introduced by Judith Edmister.

In the fall exercise program, women started the class with a three-minute jog around the gymnasium. Although most women could not maintain a jogging pace for three minutes at the beginning of the fall session, all of them were able to jog for three minutes by the end of the session.

Other exercises to stretch and strengthen the muscles were used. Facial isometrics and deep breathing were introduced to relax and stimulate infrequently-used muscles of the face and chest cavity.

Mrs. Edmister is the new director and instructor of women's and girl's programs at the YMCA. She has received training with professional dance teachers in New York City and Kansas City, Mo., and several universities including SIUE.

Her performing and choreography has been with Kansas City dance theatre, Alvin Niklaus dance theatre, and the SIUE dance theatre. Mrs. Edmister is a senior at SIUE and is majoring in theater with a specialty in dance. The classes that she plans for the winter session at the YMCA are: Fitness Finders, Dancercise, Ballet I & II, creative dance for women and pre-school age.

Fitness Finders involves a complete exercise-health program approved by the President's Council on Physical Fitness.

Dancercise is exercising to music to achieve the grace and poise of a dancer. It is recommended for those who already are in fair shape.

Creative dance techniques are intended for women interested in exercise with aesthetic and expressive values.

A personalized program on beauty, facial care, and makeup is also available to any women who sign up for an exercise program, Mrs. Edmister said.

Two Pontoon taverns get suspensions

Two more Pontoon Beach taverns have been given license suspensions in an effort to stop disorders in the village, Floyd David Moss, village president and liquor commissioner, explained at Thursday night's village board meeting.

Moss said Mary's Tavern, 4122 Pontoon Road, has had its license suspended for 30 days for allegedly serving two minors. A fight followed the alleged incident, leaving one man hospitalized and others injured.

A 10-day suspension has been ordered for All's Place (formerly Chuck's Lounge and Jack's Lounge), 4001 Kaseberg Lane, for allegedly serving a minor.

Moss said the taverns have been creating situations "hazardous to the health and welfare of the community," and said he intends to see that the problems are corrected.

In other business, the village board refused to accept a plat to annex a portion of Kaseberg Lane into the village. Moss said the plat, as presented, calls for the village to annex the road way from Marigold Drive north to half of the bridge.

He said the board will accept only that portion of the roadway which serves the Kaseberg Park mobile home development. Residents of the park have requested annexation of the road due to the poor condition of the pavement. The bus service to the mobile home park has been curtailed because of the roadway. If annexed, the village will repair the road which now is privately owned.

The board referred the plat to attorneys to try and have the portion of the roadway north of the mobile home park removed from the annexation documents.

A resolution appropriating $16,000 of motor fuel tax funds for road maintenance purposes during 1974 was approved. A copy was sent to the district engineer of the state highway department for final approval.

The board agreed to pay half of the damages to a state street lighting pole damaged in a collision involving a village police car and another auto in August 1972. The village's bill for the repairs was $206. The accident was on Route 111 near State Aid Route 33.

Bids were called for the third time on the sale of two used police cars. Only one bid was accepted the last time and it was not sealed. It was reported.

News notes

Gov. Daniel Walker on Friday endorsed former Lieut. Gov. Paul Simon for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the 24th District over Joe R. Browning of Benton and Ogie Ellis of Mount Vernon. Simon was defeated by Walker in the 1972 primary for governor. A former local state representative and senator, Simon now lives in Carbondale.

No new date has been set for the "accountability session" scheduled for Granite City High School North Thursday evening, Jan. 10, but postponed due to adverse weather. It was the third postponement of a proposed visit by Gov. Walker to hear questions and comments by Quad-Cityans.

The Atomic Energy Commission denied Friday that it is proposing to build a $1 billion coal research center. Illinois Gov. Walker said it was the AEC he referred to in discussing the project in his 1974 "state of the state" address.

Granite City Assessor Von Doe Cruise, who is seeking the Democratic nomination as Madison County clerk, said Friday he would give up operation of Jacobmeier's Tavern if necessary to qualify for the county office.

Cruise said the liquor license has been changed from himself to his wife. In an unrelated case, the Cook County Circuit Court has temporarily enjoined the Illinois Liquor Commission from enforcing a law banning political contributions by taverns. Those seeking a permanent injunction say the law makes tavern owners "second-class citizens."

It is illegal to require customers to purchase additional items with gasoline, Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott ruled Friday. He said dealers doing so will be prosecuted and are subject to up to three years in jail and a $50,000 fine.

Cong. Melvin Price of this district repeated Friday he will vote to impeach Pres. Nixon if the House Judiciary Committee recommends it. "If they felt the evidence was strong enough, most would support the committee," a poll of 377 representatives last week showed 37 per cent leaning toward a "no" vote on impeachment, 21 per cent leaning toward "yes" and 42 per cent undecided.

An Army spokesman said Saturday the Army might consider moving part of the Aviation Systems Command to Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, and leaving the rest in St. Louis. A move to Georgia also is being studied.

Magazine readers the victims of continuing increases in postal rates

BENJAMIN Franklin, mindful of the dependence of the people of a fledgling nation on the printed word for education and information, two centuries ago established a policy of low postal rates for periodicals.

And Congress since 1782 has maintained its benevolent view of the publishing industry as a stimulant to the circulation and exchange of new ideas.

But in 1970, in response to public complaints of poor service, Congress passed the Postal Reorganization Act, assuming that businesslike methods would bring new efficiency and corresponding economy to the mail delivery service.

The legislation required that within five years its effective date by July 6, 1976 — each class of mail should pay its own way.

The optimism of 1970 has been proved invalid.

Postal service has not improved. Costs have gone up. The public has been asked to share the increased cost burden through higher rates for letters.

But few Americans are aware of the more startling demands made of the publishers of national magazines. Second-class rates under which 30,000 publications operate have risen 57 per cent in three years.

THEY WILL be hiked again by an estimated 127 per cent by the 1976 deadline.

Look and Life magazines, faced with probable increases in mailing costs of millions of dollars annually, quietly went out of business in 1971.

THE READER'S Digest and its monthly circulation of 18 million predicts in the current issue that its bill for postage in 1976 will rise to $16 million from the present level of $7 million.

"Will Congress kill the magazine industry?" the editors ask their readers.

Conceding that their own healthy publication will survive, they see the spiraling postal rates as a death sentence for less robust magazines.

The scheduled increases in postal rates combined with inescapable boosts in the costs of paper and printing, if passed along to subscribers, would create, in the words of a spokesman for Time magazine, "a magazine industry for the affluent only."

The Cost of Living Council, in ordering delays in postal rate boosts scheduled for Jan. 1, has given Congress a chance to reassess its mandate to the Postal Service.

The federal rate subsidy to publishers in 1973 amounted to $190 million — about the same support given to rice farmers.

THE LEVEL should be maintained for the benefit of readers who look to the national magazines to supplement other communications media as sources of mental stimulation.

Springfield bureau — State lottery results should be given close study

TAXES should hurt. Fiscal pain should be felt by those citizens from whom money is extracted at the time it is taken. They should be fully aware of the amount of their hard-earned cash which goes to operate the government.

Fundamentally, that is the inherent and obvious danger of a state operated lottery or a gambling game operated at any level of government, including the one signed by Gov. Daniel Walker.

The pain of paying is extracted from the payment. It comes in dribs and drabs with a hope of substantial financial reward at the end of that elusive rainbow, which somebody will someday hit. Unfortunately, many citizens of our state will believe that surely they are next in line for the golden circle.

But their individual chances are actually quite small. They will continue week after week, month after month, year after year paying their stipend, never realizing that it will be costing them a goodly amount of cash over a year. Fifty cents a week, for example, is $26 a year. Two dollars a week is more than $100 a year.

When Gov. Daniel Walker signed the lottery bill passed by the legislature he said it could bring as much as $100 million into the state's coffers. But it isn't money from Heaven. It's money from people — poor as well as rich. And it is tax money.

We will fervently hope that the lottery does not become scandal-ridden and corrupt. We will trust that as the ninth state to have a lottery, Illinois will be able to set a standard of morality that will keep the money in the hands of the state and not let it fall into the pockets of persons with a public trust. These hopes and trusts may well prove not to be misplaced. But they really beg the point, don't they. The real point is that the people of Illinois have just received a new tax of $100 million a year and its extraction from our pockets will hardly be felt. It is not an honest tax; it is a subversion of taxation.

The legislature should keep this tax under very close scrutiny. We suggest that after it has been in operation for two years an in-depth study should be made. If we find that the $100 million new tax is simply new money coming from those who cannot afford the pain but don't notice it, the lottery should be abolished and a real tax established in its place — if a tax is needed. Otherwise, a little belt-tightening like that promised but not yet delivered by Gov. Walker should be forthcoming.

If Illinois needs new taxes, it should have new taxes; not a new subterfuge.

Isakoff regarded as good choice for chairman of Illinois Ethics Board

GOV. Daniel Walker has chosen well in naming Jack F. Isakoff as the new chairman of the Illinois Board of Ethics.

Isakoff has had a long and distinguished career in state government and in the education field. He is, perhaps, best known for his work in Springfield as research director of the Illinois Legislative Council from 1938 to 1960. Under his leadership the Council built a reputation as one of the finest agencies of its kind in the entire United States.

He also has distinguished himself as chairman of the Illinois Commission on State Government and as a professor of government at Southern Illinois University, a position from which he retired earlier this year.

Isakoff's great knowledge about the workings of state government will serve him well in his new post. The Board of Ethics is a new agency with vast potential for the good of Illinois.

The appointment of Jack Isakoff is an encouraging indication that this potential will truly be realized.

"I can think of one shortage we'd sure enjoy!"

Mail can help assure full inquiry

To the Editor:

Along with the Jan. 7 letter, "Nixon Guilt—unconcern for nation," let me also encourage citizens to rise up and let their voices be heard in the form of a letter to Congressmen.

People should write regarding a move to make a full inquiry into the allegations against President Nixon. If the allegations are true, he should not be deemed to be "above the law." Rather, swift justice should prevail and he should be impeached.

I had written before when this matter arose, and six congressmen were kind enough to respond to my correspondence. For ourselves, our posterity and our allies around the world.

A great lesson can come from Watergate if Americans speak out; even a petition will suffice. Just address: Honorable (name), Member of Congress, Washington, D.C. That will get the job done.

GRANITE CITY WOMAN

Community's response aids recovery

To the Press-Record:

I would like through the courtesy of your publication to express my appreciation to my friends who have been so kind and thoughtful during my recent illness.

First of all, I want to thank all the members of the clergy of all faiths and the members of their congregations who both publicly and privately offered prayers for my return to good health.

To this group I should add the nurses, aides, technicians, librarians and office personnel whose cheerful get-well cards were anticipated daily.

I also wish to thank the hundreds of patients who cheered me with their cards, flowers and personal messages.

At the present time I am at home resting and awaiting the time when my medical advisors will permit me to return to work, which I hope shall be in the very near future.

DAVID FRIEDMAN, M.D., 2622 State St.

Mr. Nixon innocent till proven guilty

To the Editor:

As a Jan. 7 Forum writer said, thank God this is still a free country. I have a right to express my opinion.

She talked about Mr. Nixon's guilt. In a free country, a man is innocent until proven guilty, even a President.

She wrote about the bombing of Hanoi. I feel our boys would still be there in Vietnam if Mr. McGovern was on his knees begging for them.

Let's be truthful. Mr. Nixon didn't get them there; he got them home.

She blames Mr. Nixon for the inflation. But haven't we been living beyond our means and asking our unions to get higher wages which did nothing but raise the price of products?

I don't know that Mr. Nixon has done so much wrong. Look at the corruption in the state of Illinois alone, involving former governors and judges and others. It hurts to know we have given such persons our votes.

But in a democracy you get them out of office by the courts and by your votes, not by party politics or influencing public opinion.

I have written this same thing to our congressman, Melvin Price, and Senator Percy a long time ago.

I have been a Democrat for 35 years.

MRS. IRIS CHASTAIN 2512 Center St.

Dying woman not allowed to see son

To the Editor:

Thank you, Madisonville, Kentucky.

Yes, thanks to Madisonville authorities, a very brave, wonderful and religious woman is going to her grave without having her one and only request fulfilled. Her denied request was that she might see her son, Joe Thomas Whitl, one of her 13 children.

He was taken to Kentucky from Illinois, and it was denied that her son be detained by her home, a mere 70 miles away. He is now held in Hopkins County Jail in Madisonville, and they say it is quite impossible to bring him home to see his dying mother—a mother who raised 13 children, only one a little tardiness because he allegedly took what did not belong to him.

So, thank you, Madisonville, for not helping us fulfill this wonderful lady's one and only wish.

It is a shame that a fine religious lady who had a hard life, with many years of suffering and hard work and yet still an uncomplaining woman, was only to see her son one last time and yet cannot.

We told her she would not see her son; she replied, "That is coming to see me." She has much faith in God and her fellow man.

So, why couldn't the authorities help? Was it because they could not handle one prisoner, who could have been handled? Or was it because no one cared about a dying woman?

It is a bitter shame that this is such an inhumane society, where no one cares about a mother's final request to see her son. Those who are so busy bringing to justice those who have broken the law should remember that Mrs. Ella Whitl has broken no law.

Is there no one to help bring her some much deserved justice?

All her life, she has been very close to her church and studied and read her Bible daily. She's always the first to help those who need it and always had a kind word for those who were not so kind.

She has taken care of the elderly and when she herself was not in good health.

So I say, "Thank you,

Madisonville" for you are the ones who could have helped but did not. You are the ones who could have made it possible for a dying, loving mother to see her son.

You are the ones who did not help fulfill her last wish—the wish of a mother to see her son one last time. She waited for little and asked for nothing.

It makes my heart sad that a great country like the United States of America does not have enough people who care about their fellow man.

As I write this, she lies on her death bed, dying and waiting for her son, a son who cannot come.

Heavy weight models waste about 30 per cent of the energy they use.

Moreover, the automobile boom is responsible for the inefficiency of suburbanization, disposing people over immense metropolitan areas so motorists have to drive 30 or more miles to work.

Now, however, it is getting to be impossible to perfect a mass transit system to pinch-hit for the automobile, especially at reasonable cost and in a matter of a decade.

At the same time that America wedded itself to the automobile, it also opted for another energy-wasteful transportation system: trucks.

Trucks burn up four to six times as much fuel per ton-mile as do trains.

Efficient energy use is likely to require major new airports

By RALPH E. LAPP

(A nuclear physicist, the writer is the author of "The Logarithmic Century," a study of growth and energy in the 20th Century.)

The noise that the Arab oil sheiks are drawing tight about the neck of the American motorist is one of our own design.

For we have chosen to make ourselves dependent on an incredibly wasteful system of personal transportation.

And the spectacular growth of this system, overwhelming our ability to produce fuel for it, has in turn made us dependent on foreign sources and vulnerable to any sudden cutoff of supply.

Americans today drive more than 100 million automobiles and more than 20 million trucks and buses.

Auto registrations have been increasing at a rate of 3.9 per cent a year, almost four times the rate of population growth.

The average passenger vehicle is driven about 10,000 miles a year.

If you drive a 1974 model other than a compact you are probably getting no more than 10 miles a gallon, so that your annual gasoline consumption will be 1,000 gallons—about 24 barrels (they contain 42 gallons each).

Fifty barrels of oil enter the refinery to produce those 24 barrels of gasoline, so your real demand on the refinery will amount to 50 barrels.

By 1975, the U.S. was consuming 6.3 billion barrels of oil a year and getting only four billion barrels from domestic sources. The rest—2.3 billion barrels—had to be imported.

For Americans, who have lived lives of energy affluence, it is difficult to believe that we are running out of oil—that domestic wells are producing at peak allowable capacity and that our little hope of improving this situation very soon.

We hear of 60 billion barrels of oil buried in the oil shale of the Rocky Mountains, but that is not apt to ease the gasoline crisis by 1980, for there are environmental, technological and economic problems to overcome.

Assuming that oil starts to flow through the Alaska pipeline in 1976, this is not likely to add more than half a billion barrels to the nation's 1980 supply.

That's only six per cent of the more than 8 billion barrels demand anticipated for that year.

Even if U.S. production maintains its peak for the next 20 years and oil from Canada and Alaska brings the total supply to somewhat more than 5 billion barrels a year, that leaves 3 billion barrels of deficit.

And by 1985, according to the National Petroleum Council estimates, we would be looking abroad for even more oil.

Yet there are modest signs of hope. Detroit's V-8 super-powered engines have long dominated the U.S. car market, but the prospect of gas rationing has shifted the buyer's eyes to lightweight models that give better mileage.

A consumer stampede to lightweight and imports could have a profound effect on gasoline consumption in 1980.

In six model years, the shift to lightweight new cars, combined with the lessons learned by several years of gas-rationing and lowered speed limits, could keep America's motor traffic moving in 1980 with about the same total gasoline consumption as in 1973—even with 30 million more cars.

As an energy system—meaning one in which one adds up all energy costs from the oil well to the industrial producer of cars and finally to the last gasp of energy when rubber wears on the road—the automobile is incredibly wasteful.

Heavy weight models waste about 30 per cent of the energy they use.

Moreover, the automobile boom is responsible for the inefficiency of suburbanization, disposing people over immense metropolitan areas so motorists have to drive 30 or more miles to work.

Now, however, it is getting to be impossible to perfect a mass transit system to pinch-hit for the automobile, especially at reasonable cost and in a matter of a decade.

At the same time that America wedded itself to the automobile, it also opted for another energy-wasteful transportation system: trucks.

Trucks burn up four to six times as much fuel per ton-mile as do trains.

Yet America's railroads, most energy-efficient system of transportation, have been in constant decline.

Much political pain will be involved in such decision-making to convert our transportation mess into a rational, energy-conserving transportation mix.

The public need and private enterprise come into conflict. Take for instance, domestic air transportation. Over the past two decades, the growth of U.S. air travel, measured in revenue passenger-miles, has doubled every six years, corresponding to a growth rate of 12 per cent a year.

Recently, air cargo shipments have grown at an even more spectacular rate, with a roughly parallel leap in fuel consumption.

Last year, U.S. air carriers gulped down more than 10 billion gallons of fuel.

Even with the flight economy recently inaugurated, cramming more people aboard each plane, it's likely that in 1980 the big jets would consume more than 20 billion gallons of fuel.

Of course, the government could restrain the airlines' growth curve, but this would mean introducing some system of priority for air travel—something about as appealing as gas rationing.

Actually, air travel is relatively energy-efficient for passenger transportation: a little arithmetic (1.1 billion passenger-miles divided by 10 billion gallons) shows that a gallon of jet fuel averages 15 miles per passenger.

It's the rate which Americans are becoming airborne that's so critical to the energy crisis.

Air cargo, on the other hand, is a most prodigious waste of fuel; on a ton-mile basis, it uses 40 times more fuel than rail shipments.

An energy-limited society, if it is to survive, must curtail the growth of the air freight business.

Yet, The Wall Street Journal recently quoted a General Motors executive proposing to fly Cadillacs to the West Coast. America's transportation system will have to be planned to serve the public interest by maximizing passenger-miles and miles per gallon of fuel.

Wherever possible, the use of premium fuels should be minimized; this means looking to the long term, beyond the year 2000, to a time when the machines will be patterned to the fuel and not vice versa.

For example, electrification of railways using energy produced from nuclear stations would allow allocation of precious petroleum to motor vehicles.

And someday in the distant future, nuclear plants may use their power to generate hydrogen gas or some organic "usable" like methane to power America's motor cars.

Perhaps in the least distant future, it may be possible to manufacture "commuter" cars running on electric batteries.

But these are energy options beyond the year 1980 and they may help out in our gasoline crisis of the 1970s.

Another example of long-term energy planning is a master plan for an integrated surface-air U.S. transportation system.

The present constellation of airports near cities is very energy-wasteful because of short flights and congested surface travel to and from airports.

I have conceived a futuristic plan that would restrict the nation's air travel to about 30 huge super-airports.

Only a few of these—like Dallas-Fort Worth and Kansas City—are in existence today.

The others would be sited quite far from cities by high-speed rail transit.

No commercial air travel of less than 300 miles would be permitted and no private planes would be allowed to use the superports.

For example, one superport would be located in Eastern Ohio, serving the needs of Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Columbus.

New England would have two airports, including one in Maine serving as an international terminal.

Some states like Idaho, Montana and Wyoming would share a single superport. Mail passenger planes would have bottom jets operating on a fly-when-full shuttle service.

Despite the wide spacing of the superports, passengers would enjoy good portable-portal travel time because of high-speed ground transportation.

This plan of course, looks beyond the rim of this century because of the vast rail construction program it entails.

Growth in use of hospital

By SISTER MARY THOMAS, Administrator

St. Elizabeth Hospital During 1973 much occurred in the economy which directly affected the health care industry and, particularly, all short-term general care hospitals.

The Economic Stabilization Program, with its cost of Living Council, imposed mandatory controls on patient charges for care and services without restraining prices charged to hospitals.

This greatly reduced the hospital's operating margin, which is used to expand services and to replace needed equipment. St. Elizabeth's feels fortunate to have completed its expansion and renovation program before such stringent controls hampered its ability to offer the most comprehensive services available.

St. Elizabeth Hospital wants to insure that it continues to meet community needs in the face of such controls. During the past year, we met with labor, industry and other community representatives. In order to assess the extent to which we are meeting these needs, the hospital has employed the services of a national hospital consulting firm, Chi Systems of Ann Arbor, Mich., to update our long-range plans, to tell us where we are and where we should be going in order to meet patient needs.

With the hospital's designation as an area-wide trauma center in 1972, the Emergency Room experienced a much larger than predicted volume in patient load, from 25,339 patients in 1972 to 32,329 patients in 1973. The increase for 1973 is expected to be even greater because of the recent installation of a direct line trauma radio, supplied by the state.

A look at some pertinent statistics will show the overall growth in inpatient and outpatient activity for 1973. Patient admissions rose from 13,243 to approximately 14,200, a gain of 7.5 per cent. Patient days increased from 22,667 to slightly over 30,000, or

SISTER MARY THOMAS

9.1 per cent. X-ray procedures rose 6.1 per cent, laboratory procedures 8.2 per cent and respiratory therapy procedures leaped 20 per cent over 1972.

Operating room procedures increased from 4,205 to approximately 5,000, up 16 per cent.

We expect to continue this growth into 1974 without any increase in room rates. The only significant decrease was in newborn days, down 7.3 per cent, resulting from an area drop in birthrate.

Several new physicians, representing needed specialties, have come to the Quad-Cities. As such, we expect a major increase in the utilization of our physical therapy services which are in great demand in this industrialized community.

Both the joyful and the sorrowful come as a matter of course with each year of service offered. Two members of the hospital family passed away—Dr. John Riley, a Medical Staff member, and Lyle Guiley, a member of the Governing Board.

However, we are pleased that George Pulianas, vice-president of administration of Granite City Steel, has accepted the position left open on the Board.

We have also filled the vacant positions of assistant administrator and nursing service administrator.

In September, 1973, the hospital sponsored an open house for the community to view the new facilities of our ground floor Binney Wing, with Congressman Melvin Price as honored guest. With our new facilities and services and the dedication of our employees, Board and Medical Staff, the hospital will continue to strive toward its ever-present goal, meeting patient needs.

Shaping Environment topic of 1st seminar

John N. McCall, professor of psychology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will be the opening speaker for the University Seminar at Edwardsville on Wednesday, Jan. 21.

R. Buckminster Fuller, internationally known theorist, was to have delivered the keynote address for the seminar tomorrow, but icy weather forced a postponement. Fuller's address has been rescheduled for Jan. 21.

Shaping the Environment is the general topic for the seminar series. McCall's subject is "The New Environmentalism: Psychological Perspectives." He will speak at 6 p.m. in the University Theater on the SUE campus.

The University Seminar at Edwardsville is a forum for interdisciplinary study and discussion on serious problems facing society. Sessions are open to all students, faculty and the public. Faculty members from the Schools of Business, Dental Medicine, Education, Fine Arts, Humanities, Nursing, Science and Technology and Social Sciences have been selected as members of the seminar and will present papers bearing on the year's topic at sessions scheduled through May.

Invitations to attend and participate in the seminar have been sent to the faculties of all junior colleges, colleges and universities within commuting distance of SUE. Similar invitations have been extended to more than 600 community leaders in the metropolitan area.

In addition, nine outstanding students, designated as presidential scholars, will assist in the seminars, including two from Granite City. They are Stephen Conway, 2520 Edison Ave., and Gregory Lux, 2526 B. 27th St. Periodically until June, 11 members of the SUE faculty, along with the nine presidential scholars, will analyze the environment from the points of view of their professional disciplines.

Conway graduated from Granite City High School in June, 1967. He attended Millikan University in Decatur before enrolling at SUE. He graduated from SUE in June, 1971, with a major in biology and a minor in chemistry. Conway is a second-year student at the SUE School of Dental Medicine.

Lux is a junior at SUE majoring in government and English. His hobbies are literature and ecology. After graduation next year he plans to attend law school.

Illinois traffic deaths up for 1973; December down

Traffic deaths in Illinois during 1973 were five per cent more than 1972, according to provisional reports of the Illinois Department of Transportation and the Illinois State Police.

During 1972 there were 3,222 deaths, compared with 2,331 for 1973.

The overall five per cent increase is attributed to the fact that there were more people driving more vehicles more miles on Illinois streets and highways in 1973. Over the past ten years, licensed drivers have increased 15 per cent and miles traveled have risen nearly 50 per cent. The year-end total includes December traffic deaths, which showed a 17 per cent decrease over the same month last year. Factors said to be contributing to this sharp decrease are fuel shortages and bad weather. Of the 144 fatalities in December, 82 occurred as the result of 75 accidents in which only one motor vehicle was involved in each case.

Those killed included 29 pedestrians, one motorcycleist, one pedalcyclist and 33 drivers or passengers. This total also includes 18 fatalities in 12 railroad crossing accidents.

An additional 62 persons died in 48 traffic accidents involving collisions between two or more motor vehicles. This figure includes one fatality in a motorcycle-auto accident.

There were 15 multiple-fatality accidents that resulted in 36 traffic deaths. Of these, there were two deaths, four 3-deaths and one 4-death accident. The five Saturdays and five Sundays in December accounted for 50 traffic deaths—35 per cent.

Fatal traffic accidents were reported in 46 of the 102 counties during the month. Thirty-one fatalities occurred in Cook County; six each in DuPage and Lake counties; five each in Madison and Peoria counties and four each in Adams, Champaign, Kendall, Randolph, St. Clair, Saline, Tazewell and Will counties.

More shopping within this community being forecast

By FRED R. WILLIAMS
President,
First Granite City
Savings and Loan

The big hazard on business forecasting at this time of year is the uncertainty that exists nationwide. The business trend today can be "obsolete tomorrow," and government programs and ideas can change overnight, as we have all discovered. Our major concern is, of course, our own destiny—will we have a job, under what conditions must we live, what will happen in Washington and foreign countries and, most important to us, what happens in our own local area. America seems to be out of everything—inventories are very low. But the energy crisis is the controlling factor in what we are going to be able to do. Because of this crisis, many economists believe our economy will be held at the present level or slightly lower. Inflation or higher costs will be more evident in 1974. Predictions are that the Mississippi and the Missouri River could flood again next spring, so it looks like we will have an ample supply of water, maybe what we need is a new "water gate." Short-term interest rates will probably decline in early 74 but long-term rates will be more than likely stay at about the present rate. New housing construction will be down in the first half of 1974, which will cause prices to rise on existing homes. More money to buy houses will probably be evident, but interest rate cost on morgages will no doubt go higher, as will general prices on most commodities and consumer goods.

We believe people will do more shopping at local levels rather than far-out centers, a boon to local area merchants. Our company has just completed its most successful year and will begin the 80th year of service to our community. During the past year, we have converted our accounts to electronic data processing, provided additional parking facilities for our customers, and hope to offer continued top service to our home owners and saving account members. All of your financial institutions in the area show increases in strength and growth over the past year. Evidence of a strong stability and the capabilities to help increase the economic progress of our community.

State may tighten ease air controls

Illinois environmental authorities are reassessing the state's sulfur dioxide regulations, with an eye to possibly easing them in some areas while tightening them, in others.

Dr. John Roberts, head of the air pollution control division in the state Environmental Protection Agency, says easing standards would not alter the situation in regard to Illinois coal in the three high air quality regions of the state—Peoria, East St. Louis and Chicago. Illinois coal is still so high in sulfur, he said, that unless all standards are abandoned entirely, it would still not be suitable to use in those three areas. Illinois coal can be, and is, used in most of the rest of the state with EPA approval, since it meets clean air standards existing in most vicinities. Twenty days of monitoring were recently done at Peoria but the data from that study has not been evaluated, Dr. Roberts said.

A target date has been set for the end of January to have an EPA proposal regarding sulfur dioxide standards ready to submit to the Illinois Pollution Control Board. Although the reassessment is still under way, Dr. Roberts said it is possible that the EPA may recommend that the PCB relax some standards to permit more emissions in some areas while requesting that controls be made even more strict in refineries and processing plants, particularly in the Joliet, Lockport and Roxana areas. The EPA routinely reassesses the control regulations from time to time, Dr. Roberts said, as new and refined equipment and techniques are developed or as more data becomes available. But the present study is being conducted under pressure by both the legislature and industry in the face of current fuel shortages.

The reassessment on most of the regulations had been largely completed in early December, he said, but the need to take a more detailed look at operations at refineries and processing plants added about two months to the study. Each emission source at the refineries is being examined as part of the current re-evaluation, he said. "We find ourselves somewhat on the horns of a dilemma," he told the Press-Record, "since we can see some justification for relaxing some standards which wouldn't be of much help for Illinois coal anyway. On the other hand, we are also seeing a possible need for increased controls in other areas."

Study shows more precipitation because this area is urbanized

Researchers of the Illinois State Water Survey have proof that an urban-industrial area modifies its weather, causing significant impacts on local agriculture and water resources. Stanley A. Chagnon, head of the survey's Atmospheric Sciences Section, said today.

The research is part of the Metropolitan Meteorological Experiment (Metromex), a five-year multi-project field investigation of urban effects on weather being conducted in the St. Louis Metropolitan area. "Summary" Report of Metromex Studies, 1971-72, edited by Floyd A. Huff, summarizes two-year results from 18 studies by survey researchers.

Chagnon said, "When our climatological studies persistently indicated weather anomalies associated with large cities, we decided it was time to make concentrated measurements and analyses of an actual situation and to assess the economic and ecological impact for Illinois."

The project began in 1971 with a massive installation of meteorological measuring devices in and around St. Louis. A 3,800-square-mile network has 250 sites where rain and hail are measured.

Devices to detect and record thunderstorms were developed, two types of weather radars were installed and an aircraft was equipped to trace and measure cloud conditions.

Chagnon said, "Analysis of the first two years of data collection has shown that rain, thunderstorms and hail did maximize at locations 10 to 15 miles downwind of the urban-industrial region."

"These locations had more storms that were more intense, lasted longer and produced greater amounts of rain and hail. The urban effect resulted in a 20 to 30 per cent increase in summer rainfall in the downwind areas."

"Research indicated that the atmosphere which has been modified by heat and various emissions in the urban region moves up to levels where it can affect clouds, and that the urban-modified atmosphere acts to invigorate convective storms and to increase the efficiency of precipitation events." Chagnon said these precipitation changes affect agriculture in that the extra rain increases corn and soybean yields, but the extra hail causes losses that partially offset the economic benefits.

The extra rain also increases the warm season runoff in the affected areas by 15 per cent, which benefits the amount of surface and groundwater available.

However, this urban-induced rain also is responsible for deposition of pollutants in water resources.

Chagnon said, "We are continuing studies of the impact of urban-related precipitation changes in areas such as planned weather modification, better local weather forecasting and urban and regional planning."

The new publication is listed as Report of Investigation 74. Single copies may be obtained free from the Illinois State Water Survey, Box 232, Urbana, Ill. 61801.

State approval to be required for centers attracting 300 cars hourly

Public hearings have ended on proposals to control air pollution at "complex sources" such as shopping centers, sports arenas, major office buildings, highways and airports.

The transcript from those hearings, which drew scant attendance at the five sessions, is now being prepared and will be submitted to the Illinois Pollution Control Board on completion.

In normal procedures, the PCB discusses the original program, the Environmental Protection Agency's recommendations and any points raised during the public hearings at a regular board meeting which is also open to the public.

The final decision is usually announced at the next meeting, one week later.

Date for the final board discussion of possible changes in the proposed regulation will be announced once the transcript is received.

While most interest in the proposed plan has centered around shopping centers, they are not the only complex sources involved.

Basically, the regulations cover, with certain exceptions, any concentrated area where autos with motors running, gather in large enough numbers regularly to affect even temporarily, the quality of air in the vicinity.

This could include some residential areas, factories, amusement parks and even highway segments. Exempted from permit requirements under the proposal would be any complex source where original design, or any modification planned, would attract less than 300 vehicles in a one-hour period during maximum use, and less than 1,000 vehicles during a continuous eight-hour period of maximum use.

In the case of modifications, the final state of the modification and the original design—must be considered in determining whether a permit must be sought. Also exempted would be any continuous construction or modification which is begun within one year of the effective date.

However, the state EPA has already warned that no complex source, already existing or merely in the planning stage, will be permitted to violate clean air standards. The exemption provisions cover only the need to apply for a permit.

The regulations would become effective 60 days after the date of adoption by the PCB.

Prior to drafting the regulations, the EPA conducted air samplings at such diverse locations as a shopping center parking lot in Springfield, Arlington Heights, and a suburban parking lot at a shopping center in the Chicago area.

The federal EPA has ordered all states to submit proposals for governing complex sources of possible air pollution.

The state proposal was drafted with advice from a consulting group which included representatives of environmental interest groups and segments of the economy most likely to be affected—real estate developers, consulting engineers, municipal officials, urban planners and such.

2. Tread Life Guarantee Against Defects
We guarantee the Grantmaster tires, against all defects of material and workmanship, for the life of the tread.

Basis of Adjustment: Should your Grantmaster tire require adjustment under Section 1 or 2 of the Guarantee, please return it to Grants and we will replace it by giving you a proportionate allowance for the unused tread, based on the current selling price, including Federal Excise Tax.

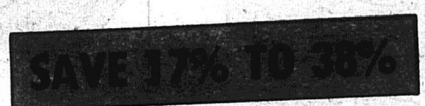

3. Guaranteed Against Tread Wear
The original tread is guaranteed not to wear out for the number of months designated.
